

THE NEW JOCKEY CLUB.

A PROPOSITION SENT TO G. G. WALBAM.

HS RPLY FROM CALIFORNIA NOT EXPECTED

BEFORE MONDAY—RACING AT SARATOGA

UNDER THE NEW CLUB WILL BE-

PENDED ON HIS ANSWER.

A meeting of the committee of representative secessionists who have in hand the formation of the new Jockey Club was held yesterday afternoon at No. 111 Broadway. It was a secret meeting, and little news of what took place was given out. Among those present who were not members of the original committee were Richard Croker and Sam Whitehead, president of the Saratoga track. No action was taken in regard to increasing the membership of the new Jockey Club to fifty, nor were any officers elected.

It was decided to make a proposition to G. Walbaum, president of the Saratoga Racing Association, in reference to his Saratoga track, and the proposition of the Jockey Club was telegraphed to Mr. Walbaum, who is in Los Angeles. A reply from him is not known whether racing will be conducted at Saratoga this year under the rules of the new Jockey Club. It is said that nothing as yet has been heard from the Coney Island Jockey Club.

Mr. Keene said last night that the racetrack in New York were all that were being considered and discussed, and that Richard Croker, when seen after the meeting, said am heartily in favor of the new movement, and will give it my support."

CRONIN'S KNIVES IN COUGHLIN'S POCKET

STRONG POINTS AGAINST THE EX-DETECTIVE BROUGHT OUT AT HIS TRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Judge Tuthill adjourned the Coukhil trial suddenly this afternoon, and, telling the jury to remain seated, walked into his chambers. A few minutes passed, and a juror, Mr. Hulman, a red-whiskered, middle-aged real estate dealer, was called into the Judge's private room.

It was nearly half an hour before the rest of the jurors received marching orders from the bailiffs. Judge Tuthill relieved the general curiosity by saying that he had received a letter from Mrs. Hulman full of hysterical fears and forebodings in regard to her husband's personal welfare and business affairs. He sent word to the jury's wife to come to court, and she came, accompanied by her son's brother, who had in the meantime succeeded in allaying her fears. It developed that the woman had been worked up into that frame of mind by foolish neighbors, who told her they were glad their husbands were not on the jury, but Judge Tuthill assured her that her husband was safer on the jury than anywhere else.

Mrs. T. T. Conklin, who has just recovered from an illness, returned to the witness stand at the opening of the trial to-day, in order to allow Judge Wing to finish his cross-examination on her important testimony relating to the taking away of the Doctor by the stranger, the identification of the white horse and her interview May 5 with P. O. Cronin. Mrs. Conklin preserved her composure, being ever ready with an answer and making the impression that she possessed an unusually retentive memory.

After Mrs. Conklin had been told she could go to the prosecution called Bartholemew Flynn, a policeman, he testified that he saw the defendant the latter part of May at the City Hall. Coukhil was then under arrest, and Lieutenant Elliott, chief of Detectives, placed him in his (Flynn's) custody. In searching the prisoner Flynn took from him a revolver and two pocket knives. Mr. Bottum then produced his two knives, which were identified by T. T. Conklin as similar to those carried by Dr. Cronin, and offered them in evidence.

Judge Wing, in the cross-examination, purposely ignored the theory of the State that Coukhil buried the corpse of Cronin of the two men, after helping to remove the doctor. His question to the witness was to give her the impression that the State introduced the evidence to show the detective's murderous disposition, certainly small jackknives as well as pocket knives.

The defense called upon to produce, for the benefit of the defense, a transcript of the stenographic notes taken of a conference held in the City Hall, just before Coukhil's arrest, with the police, and attorney, and the notes had been destroyed, and he did not know where a copy was to be found.

A subpoena was issued for ex-Major Cregier, who called the conference at which Coukhil's arrest was made.

T. T. Conklin was recalled to tell about the knives put in evidence. He explained that the larger one, with pearl handle, was given to Dr. Cronin to take to the doctor, he gave it to Dr. Conklin who carried it a year before his death. The other, with a handle of tortoise shell, was found by the witness in North Clark-st., and also given to the doctor.

The same in every particular as those which he had seen in the doctor's possession shortly before he disappeared.

Among the documents now in Chicago bearing on the case, the formal statement by Sir Charles Russell, that the name of Dr. Cronin did not appear on the list of British detectives, which was handed to the Parnell Commission by the informer Le Caron at the trial in 1885. It has repeatedly been said that Cronin was assassinated because he was a British spy.

WORK OF THE COLORADO LEGISLATURE

Denver, Colo., Jan. 12.—The minority report of the special Senate Committee upon the Governor's message was submitted this morning. It says that a majority of the voters of the State are in favor of the special session, and holds that all not the measures suggested by the Governor need be taken up.

The report solemnly demands that in the event of an immediate adjournment, the Governor be requested to call another extra session to consider the trust deed and attachment laws, and to pass laws reducing the salaries of public officers from Governor to the hundredth county office, to correspond to the reduced price of real estate, wages and commodities.

In the House a vote was taken to consider the matter of the hundredth adjournment, resulting in a vote of ayes and 29 nays. A two-thirds vote was required. The Kilton resolution against Governor Walte's legal-tender scheme was then taken up and passed. It declares the proposition to be unconstitutional, visionary, vicious and un-constitutional.

A member of the House read a telegram from Senator Stewart of Nevada, late this afternoon, to the effect that the bill, which was introduced in the Senate, will be referred to the Committee on Finance, and a hearing will be had on it.
